

Mrs. Rossi is a retired business owner. She ran a successful Spa Salon in Sunny Isles Beach, where she worked for over 25 years while raising three children. She and her husband have raised two sons and a daughter. Their oldest son is a General Surgeon, married, with four children. Their younger son has a degree from UM in Marine Science and taught in the science department at a private high school for 6 years. He is also married. He and his wife have two young children who are cared for by their dad, while mom works as a Nurse Anesthetist. He plans to use his teaching abilities to home school his children. Rosanne and her husband also have a teenage daughter and she is the musician. Because of her daughter's dedication to the violin, Rosanne has ventured into homeschooling since her daughter was in seventh grade. Because of Tom Moore's influence, Francesca decided to pursue violin performance. As a result of her talent and the support she got, Francesca was able to reach an amazing level of achievement. She received a 'Full Scholarship' to Lynn Conservatory in Boca Raton, FL. Francesca also won a competition from the Hollywood Music Club for $8,000.00 to aide her in her pursuit of excellence. All of this was possible because of the dedication Tom Moore had, not only to his profession, but also his personal attention, to each of his students.

Rosanne realized that they found more than a violin teacher in Mr. Moore. Tom's energy and positive influence went well beyond the violin. This is why Rosanne has joined to support this cause to allow other violinists access this treasure of knowledge.

Rosanne feels that her time is well spent in helping young people to be the best that they can be. She was chosen by Tom Moore to be his Administrative Assistant, when he began Classical Virtuosi of Miami, to assist him with all aspects of the project. Rosanne wants to continue to support Tom Moore's legacy of excellence and vision.
